By Victor Lusinchi

GENEVA, Aug. 5 (NYT) .- The United States and the Soviet Union presented today a jointlydrafted text of an international convention that they said would make impossible "for the sake of all mankind" the waging of war with biological weapons. This was the goal set forth in the preamble of the 14-article drsft treaty that the two powers presented to the Geneva Disarmament Conference,

Both James Leonard, the U.S. delegale, and the Soviet representative, Alexel A. Roshchin, said that they expected that the conference would complete work on tbe draft in time to have it adopted by the UN General Assembly this year. The proposed treaty would bind nations "not to develop, produce, stockpile or otherwise acquire or retain" mlcrobial or other blological agents or toxins except for peaceful purposes. Nations joining the treaty would also undertake the same commitment regarding all weapons and related equipment designed to make possible the nse of biological agents in warfare. Another commitment provides for the destruction, or the conversion to peaceful use, of all the banned biological weapons "as scon as possible." A maximum delay is to be written into the treaty after further study of the time needed to dispose of these weapons with maximum safety for life and the environment

The United States has fixed a timetable of 14 months for completion of the destruction it began unilaterally last month of its arsenal of blological weapons Alter President Nixon renounced their use in a statement made on Nov. 25, 1969.

Looking pleased with the result of their work, the U.S. and Russian negotiators emphasized at separate press conferences what they saw as the significance of the proposed han.

Unlike past agreements nego-tiated at the conference they said, the projected treaty was a

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (WP), -The Nixon administration has ordered a halt to the dispatching of special CIA-supported teams of Laotian tribesmen into China. on reconnaissance patrols from bases in northern Laos, according to well-informed diplomatic

These patrols-which sometimes range 200 miles inside China's Yunnan province on road-watch-ing and telephone-tapping missions-have been going on for a number of years and their existence was known to the Peking regime.

Nevertheless, in a recent action designed to avoid any possible incident that could sour U.S. relations with Peking before President Nixon's forthcoming trip to the Communist mainland, the forays now have been halted, according to official sources here.

Although no Americans go on these patrols, the Laotian hill tribesmen that do carry them out sre recruited, trained and equipped by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, and the staging area for the patrols is a CIA outpost in northern Laos.

The Laotians are native to the region and the intelligence-gathering operation took advantage of the normal movements back and forth across the border of these hill people.

While the White House, CIA and the U.S. Embassy in Vientlane, Laos, have never commented on or confirmed these activities --which reportedly date back to the Johnson administration-the patrols have been mentioned in numerous press reports by U.S. correspondents in Laos.

This was the period immediately preceding the Pakistan Army's intervention in East Pakistan.

In a document called "White Paper on the Crisis in East Pakistan," the government contended that it was disclosing for the first time figures of what it called the "political genocide" unleashed by Sheikh Mujibur Rahman's Awami League cadres snd rebels from Bengali regiments of the Pakistan Army in orcas temporarily under their control.

It said: "The Awami League reign of terror unleashed from March 1 onward claimed the lives of 100,000 men, women and children, besides causing incalculable dsmage to public and private buildings transport and communications, and industrial establishments "

It added that all this had been done with the active connivance and assistance of India, which had never really accepted the establishment of Pakistan and had spared no effort to undo it.

The document said President Yabya Khan had ordered the armed forces into action to preserve the integrity of Paki-stan. It said they had struck a preemptive blow barely a few hours before what was to have been the Awami League's planned

Scientists Ride High-Flying Jet To Get a Rare Close-up of Mars

HONOLULU, Aug. 5 (UPI) .- Scientists rode a high-altitude jet aircraft today for an unusually close look at Mars, as the planet headed toward its closest approach to earth in 300 years. A specially equipped Convair-990, operated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, left Hickman Air Force Base last night with 23 scientists and 19 others aboard, to probe the mysteries of the red planet. They planned to stay aloft for at least six hours.

Dr. Nancy Roman, chief of astronomy for NASA in Washington, D.C., said scientists are particularly interested in Mars, "the only planet in our solar system where we think life may have arisen other than earth."

She said the information obtained from the four planned highly flights "may possibly bring the day closer" when man visits the fourth planet from the sun.

"We want to find out how Mars is similar to and different from the earth and obtain information that will help us understand the origin of Mars and perhaps of earth as well," Miss Roman said.

Next Thursday Mars will be 34.9 million miles from earth and the brightest object in the sky after the sun, moon and Venus. The last time Mars was so close to earth was in 1671. Mars is 249 million miles away at its farthest distance from earth.

Tories Win 8-Month Struggle

Parliament Passes Measure To Control Wildcat Strikes

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP) .- The Conservative government won an eight-month struggle early today when the House of Commons approved the most controversial bill of the year, a strike-control law hased largely on American labor practice.

The bill, designed to curh the wave of strikes that has helped to choke the British economy, was passed 254 to 317, a government majority of 37.

Approval of the bill, first published last December for enect-ment by Easter, followed months of delay forced by the Labor opposition and the trade unions. The struggle included debate over endless amendments, all-night parliamentary sittings, and a series of one-day strikes by union militants pledged to kill what they view as "an employers' charter.'

Wilson Tumbles In Opinion Poll

LONDON, Aug. 5 (UPI) .--Popular support for Labor party leader Harold Wilson has dropped sharply in the past month, according to a poll published today.

The poll, printed in the Evening Standard, said tost Mr. Wilson's popularity, running between 43 and 47 percent from January through June, dropped to 39 percent in July.

Political sources said the pposition leader's recent decision to oppose Britain's entry into the Common Market probably had the greatest influence on the change in the figures.

sides, was whether it would ever work, in the face of massive union opposition. The unions last year forced the former Labor government to withdraw a similar bill. This time they are pledged to a policy of noncooperation to make the Conservative version asked.

fail. The thrust of the bill makes contracts between management and labor enforceable in the courts, with fines of up to £100,000 against unions that break the contracts. Some 95 percent of all work stoppages in Britain are wildcat strikes unanthorized by the union leadership. The bill would force the unions to control their men.

But it requires union cooperation before the contracts can be made legally binding and major unions have said they will refuse. They resent powers being given to the courts to rule on "unfair industrial practices." Union leaders here argue that legally binding contracts in the United States do not always work and can lead to worse strike problems. Other key provisions of the British bill include:

· Power for the government to order a 60-day cooling-off period. in strikes that threaten a national emergency, This point is based partly on Taft-Hartley legislation in America. It can delay, but not prevent, strikes.

. Ballots by union rank and file in serious disputes before a strike can start, But in Britain, often, the rank and file is more militantly in favor of a strike than the union leadership.

SAIGON Aug. 5 (WP) .- Adninistrative officials of South Victnam's supreme court, to no one's surprise, rejected today Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky's application to enter the presidential race.

Mr. Ky's office said he will appeal the decision to the full nine-member court, which must make a final ruling by Aug. 20, six weeks before the Oct. 3 election.

If Mr. Ky does not qualify-and he seems to have little hope of doing so-the only challenger allowed to face President Thieu under South Vietnam's new election law will be former Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh.

The election law, pushed through by Mr. Thieu to limit the number of opposition candidates. requires all contenders to acquire the formal support of either 100 province councilmen or 40 national legislators in order to qualify. Mr. Ky submitted 101 signatures of councilment, the courts ad-ministrative officer said today, but only 62 of them were valid. Mr. Thieu submitted the signatures of 452 councilmen and 104 legislators. Mr. Minh barely qualified by submitting the signatures or 44 legislators.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (Reuters).-The House today passed and sent to the White House a bill which allows the U.S. Export-Import Bank to finance trade with most Communist nations. Reversing its stand of a month ago, the House approved the bill by a vote of 219 to 140.

The measure also expands the lending anthority of the bank from $13.5 billion to $20 billion. The bill amends a previous bank regulation which prohibited loans involving countries that aid other countries in armed conflict with the United States. This had barred loans for all East European countries except Yugoslavia.

Under the bill, the Export-Import Bank may not finance loans for countries in direct armed conflict with the United States. The President also has the authority to block any loans he finds are contrary to the national interest.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D., Ark., head of a Senate subcom-mittee that is investigating stolen and forged securities, called the report "astounding" yesterday when his panel received it from the Federel Bureau of Investiga-

Although the amounts embrace both misplaced and stolen securities, thefts make up the greatest part.

The most startling increases were in thefts of corporate bonds and common and preferred stocks. For example, about $5.7 million in bonds was reported missing or stolen in all of 1970. In the first six months of this year, losses amounted to about $44 million.

Stock Thefi Increase

More than $400 million in common and preferred stocks was reported missing or stolen in the first half of this year, compared with $148 million in all of 1970. The Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee has developed testimony showing that the securities are being stolen from brokerage houses, banks, the mails and other sources.

In many instances, the stolen curities are in turn deposited with banks and used as security for cash loans. Others are sold on an illegal market.

Sen. McClellan said that in some cases the stolen securities are being converted to cash, "possibly by bankers and brokers who apparently knew exactly what they were doing and what kind of people they were dealing with." He noted that three witnesses who testified under grants of immunity used such terms as "friendly" bankers and brokers. Senate will oblige the President.

ROME, Aug. 5 (NYT) .- Premier Emilio Colombo's shaky center-left Italian government won a new lease on life today with a compromise by the coalition parties on an important housing bill

Mr. Colombo is known to have staked the future of his one-year-old government on the passage of the housing bill that is to be voted on hy the Senate before it goes into recess Saturday. Taiwen. Such a deployment by the Chinese has been anticipated for some time at the Pentagon, but evidence that emplacement had actually started was only recently obtained. The number of operational missiles spotted so far by US reconnaissance satellites said to be fewer than 20.

Longer-Range Arm

Defense Department officials say they cannot predict how many of these missiles the Chinese will eventually field, but they still believe that Peking is placing more emphasis on developing an intermediate-range missile that would have a range about twice that of those being deployed.

A missile able to fly 2,000 miles would enable China to situate these weapons well back from its own borders. Such rockets would also be able to reach many more of the Soviet Union's heartland cities.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird estimated in March that the Chinese would have "a modest number" of both types of missiles by mid-1972.

The Chinese nuclear arsenal, which also includes a number of light and medium bombers, is still minuscule compared with that of the Soviet Union. As some U.S. analysts view things, however, the Chinese are approaching a point where the Soviets could no longer be certain to escape nuclear retaliation entirely, if they staged a surprise attack un China.

While U.S. officials stress that they view such a conflict as highly unlikely, the Soviet press carried hints of a preemptive nuclear strike against China and its nuclear facilities during the heated border dispute between the two nations in the late summer of 1969. Aside from their fledgling missile force, the Chinese have about 150 20-year-old light bombers sup-

Nuclear testing originally had not been included on the agenda but according to informed sources. was added because of the concern the issue provoked.

Miss Davis contends that the 1970 Marin County Grand Jury, which indicted her on charges of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy, was unfairly selected. State Prosecutor Albert

The Pragmatic Approach

It is a curious fact that just after President Nixon assumed, poblicly and dramatically, a very pragmatic approach to the People's Republic of China, he had to defend in his press conference an at least equally pragmatic attitude on Pakistan. There are very marked differences between the two cases: Mr. Nixon's visit to Peking, however striking in method, will give, at most, only prestige to the Mao regime; the attempt hy the House of Representatives to alter administration policies by cutting off funds for Pakistan and Greece hit at the very practical aid which the governments of those countries have been receiving from the United States

Moreover, there is the matter of timing. If an American President had proposed a trip to China at a time when the Communists were consolidating their power, and when there was an argument over whether two million, or only one million, Chinese had been killed in the process of collecting arms and potting down centers of resistance, the American people's reaction would hardly have been favorable. Pakistan stands accused right now of terrible repression in East Pakistan, and of creating a situation which may cause chaos in the war with neighboring India.

As for Greece, the issues are less acute. But it does not assist the administration case to have the Greek government proposing to ring down a curtain of "Hellenic-Christian tradition' (whatever that may mean in this connection) on journalists at a time when the Pentagon Papers have made Americans acutely conscious of their own traditions of free press.

Of course, there is something to be said for the pragmatic approach. One of the most severe reproaches leveled against American cold-war attitudes was that they tended to judge every government by American standards-or, what was worse, sustained military regimes while condemning Communists. But this cuts two ways. American assistance for Greece and Pakistan antedates the present governments and errors of both countries. It has its roots in combinations created for specific strategic purposes. Is the United States now to judge the press laws and safeguards of individual rights in, say, Greece and mainland China by different standards?

The case of Pakistan is a harder one. Mr. Nixon made out a reasonable argument for continuing economic aid for that country. and for working through the United Nations and private discussions to bring about a reasonable settlement in the area. But his. stand was undercut by the continuance of military aid, whether in the pipeline or not, at a time when that could only give West Pakistan power to kill more East Pakistanis. And in the end, the justification for pragmatism is that it works. Arbitrary definitions of unfriendly governmentsnon-recognition on principle-obviously did not advance democracy (American-style) in the Communist countries. Nor has assistance and a friendly attitude achieved that end in Greece, Pakistan, Spain or any of the other non-Communist states which have various degrees of authoritarian rule. That might be excused on the reasonable ground that in a pluralistic world, one lives with neighbors of differing political faiths; that if one doesn't provide them with weapons, someone else-the Soviet Union, China or France-will do so. The rub comes when one neighbor starts shooting up the town. Then, as in the case of Pakistan, it is necessary to take a new look at the particular brand of pragmatism that applies to that. situation

Egypt's Narrowing Options

Assistant Secretary of State Sisco's discussions with Israeli leaders in Jerusalem this week are taking place against a background of dissension in the Arab world and of strain in Arab-Soviet relations, both factors that could profoundly affect the prospects for a Middle East peace settlement.

Despite continuing tough talk in Cairo about resuming the war if agreement on a make him more amenable to the compromises total Israeli withdrawal is not reached by still necessary on Cairo's part to permit even the end of this year, President Sadat's I tion has been seriously compromised by what Mr. Sadat himself called "a complete disintegration" of Arab unity. Jordan's crackdown on the Palestinian guerrillas and the sharp, but ineffectual, rebukes from Jordan's Arab neighbors have demolished any Egyptian hope for an effective eastern front against Israel in case hostilitles resume. Gen. Numeiri's shaky rule in Sudan after the bloody coup and countercoup there, the rash adventurism of Libya's young Col. Qadhaff, the erratic extremism of Iraq and Syria's chronic unpredictability all offer cause for concern in Cairo. It would be foolhardy, indeed, to contemplate war with such unreliable allies.

old Arab Socialist Union. The experience of Sudan must be giving many Egyptians second thoughts about their country's heavy dependence on Soviet military, diplomatic and economic support.

These considerations should increase Calro's receptivity to some bold new peaco initiative from Jerusalem and Washington. # Scenario for a Nightmare

By C. L. Sulzberger

LONDON.-The nightmare vision of Soviet policy runs something like this: Moscow is preparing a long-range plan to assert unchallenged leadership of the Communist world by smashing China to the east and reestablishing control over here-tical Marxist lands to the west. While no such grand strategy can ever be confirmed, diplomats consider there is circumstantial evidence available.

Every week the Russians con-tinue to strengthen their military dispositions along the Chinese border to such a degree that it is beginning to seem axiomatic that Moscow hopes to bash its neighor, probably some time between five or ten years hence.

WASHINGTON. - President Nixon's approach to Peking, no matter how welcome it may be, was planned in secrecy, de cided by presidential fiat, carried out claudestinely and finally announced only as accomplished fact. Thus, whatever else it was, this grand diplomatic undertaking was another exercise in executive omnipotence. Thoughaimed at peace, the operation so far has not been much different from the hidden processes which carried the mation into the war in Vietnam, and its consequences could be even more far-reaching.

Faced with this kind of unchecked power, the Senate Is. pondering a resolution by Sen. John Sherman Cooper that would require the CIA to keep germane congressional committees as fully informed as the executive. And Sen. Sam J. Ervin's subcommittee is considering how the rules of "executive" privilege" can he tightened.

Trying for some leverage on the Paris talks, Sen. Vance Hartke has offered a resolution for Senate confirmation of Ambassador David Bruce's successor as chief negotiator.

Sen. J. W. Pulbright's Foreign Relations Committee, meanwhile, has been trying to find effective means to limit the most dangerous form of executive omnipotence-the waging of undeclaredwar. Congress has ample consti-tutional authority to do zo, but a major problem is to avoid inhibiting or frustrating the President's ability to act in a crisis. Another question is whether Congress itself is prepared to accept greater responsibility questions of war, and peace.

A Blunt Appraisal

William-D. Rogers, a former State Department official, told. the committee rather bluntly that if Congress intended to exercise an effective role in such matters, it would have to improve itself :. Your staffing is woefully inadequate ... Your organization is wrong. Your ways of doing business are outmoded. And your conventional habits and practices are in need of fundamental reform."

He was bowever, fundamentally in favor of congressional action to redeem the situation created by what Prof. Alexander. Bicket of Yale called the "mprecedented extension of presidential: power", that launched. the Vietnam war in 1965. . The decisions of that year, he said, "amounted to an all but explicit transfer of the power to declare war from Congress, where the Constitution lodged _it, to the President, on whom the framers refused to confer it.". Constitutional scholars generally concede that the Constitusanction. tion gives the President the gressional authorization before troop deployments that Take a "reasonable possibility" of combat (for instance. the stationing of troops in Europe in 1959, or President Kennedy's dispatch of thousands of "advisers" to Vietnam in 1971); and another requirement that a President who took emergency action to repel attack or protect American lives would have to obtain congress sional sanction within 30 days. The latter provision probably would not have hindered Presi dent Truman from intervening in the Korean war in 1950, since Congress no doubt would have supported the repelling of invasion. It might have siven Nixon trouble after the Cambodian invasion of 1970, and woold certainly have forced him to greater consideration of congress had signal and oublic opinion. And while President Johnson might have been able on his own to launch air raids in reply to the supposed Tonkin Gulf attack in 1964, he could hardly have launched the round - the - clock bombing of North Vietnam or sent a half-million troops to Asia without such authorization.

But there's the run. Even if effective "rules of practice" are devised, the greatest responsibi-lity to make them work will he on Congress itself. It will need to know more and act more efficiently, and it will have to be resolute. When a President has sent troops into combat under the flags of peace, freedom and patriotism-no matter how fraudulently-it will take a bold and confident Congress to refuse him

Most unsettling of all for President Sadat must be the suspicion of Soviet connivance in the aborted Khartoum coup, especially in light of the recent challenge to Sadat's own state. rule from pro-Soviet elements within Egypt's

But it is essential that Mr. Sisco and Israel's leaders recognize that there are limits to President Sadat's diplomatic leverage. Unless Israel is prepared to offer the Egyptians some assurance that a Suez agreement would pave the way to a wider peace-one which would eventually restore Egyptian sovereignty in Sinai-the Egyptian president is likely to suffer the fate that Gen. Numeiri has just narrowly escaped. Egypt, too, could succumb to the creeping chaos that seems to be enveloping the Arab world. Such a debacle could strengthen Soviet influence in this strategic area and destroy the best hope for peace in the Middle East since the creation of the Israeli

Peking and the U.S.

It should not be forgotten that Nationalist China, until further notice, remains a permanent member of the Security Council, where it theoretically enjoys a veto right. The imbroglio is thus not close to being resolved. Yet it would be quite surprising that the Chinese leaders had no knowledge of the American plans and dld not discuss them during the Kissinger-Chou talks last. month

The fact that these stated intentions dia not prevent the Chinese premier from inviting the American President to Peking is in itself significant. Communist China will perhaps become resigned to waiting for one more year for its membership; or the United States will perbaps become resigned to seeing the expulsion of the Nationalists decided hy a majority in the UN when the moment comes. In any case, the problem no longer appears to be an obstacle to the rapprochement initiated between Peking and Washington.

-From Le Monde (Paris).

A Message for Israel

'President Nixon's [planned] visit to Peking has a message for Israel as well as for Formosa. Tiresome friends may be left to their own devices if the United States finds an alliance working against global interests. The United States may not be prepared to risk leaving the Middle East to the Soviet Union by default. Other strategic factors count.

In July a special advisory council told the Department of the Interior in Washington that by 1985 the Middle East would be supplying about half that country's oil. Similar economic pressures are beginning to tell on Western Europe. The Arabs' increasing strength at the bargaining table could conceivably lead to Israel's isolation. Does Israel want in the end a battle with its friends as well as its enemies?

The theory is that the U.S.S.R. feels it cannot risk letting China get stronger and must therefore knock out its stomic industrial capacity, by conventional means if possible. The Soviet nuclear arsenal, however, is sufficiently strong to be used, if necessary, against the Chinese without materially weakening the deterrent aimed at the United States:

As an example of the journalistic irresponsibility fre-quently cited by Mr. Agnew, note that your edition of July 29 devoted 48 column inches (one editorial plus Art Buchwald's column) to the Vice-President's recent golf jaunt to friendly mili-tary regimes. The Munich police chief, the state prosecutor for this city and tha Bavarian interlor minister all defended the decision to send the police on the attack against the trapped bandits, who had de-manded two million marks as ransom for their hostages.

Police Chief Manfred Schreiber said the bullet which fatally wounded Miss Reppel "probably" came from one of the bandits' guns. State Prosecutor Erich Sechser said instructions had been given to police to shoot only if the hostages' lives were not endangered. Bavarian Interior Minister Bruno Merk said the decision to fire had been reached by his ministry, the prosecutor's office and the police. Newsmen jeered at Chief Schreiber's explanation of the midnight gun battle, which was viewed by hundreds of Munich residents from nearby windows and doorways.

At least 35 persons were killed and 77 injured when two trains collided near here. It was that third major rail disaster in Yugoslavia this year.

Rescue squads pulled the bodies from the wreckage of a six-car train that was taking 300 persona home from a village fair when it collided with a freight train last night 16 miles from Belgrade.

The train had just pulled out of small station on its way hack to Belgrade from the little village of Beli Potok when it and the freight trai. crashed head on. The crews of both trains survived and the engineers are being questioned. Rallway officials said that they were investigating the possibility that the freight train may have gone through a

U.S. Recording Industry Seeks to Sell New 'Quad' Sound

By Leonard Sloane NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (NYT) .-The American recording indus-try-which doesn't seem to remain static for any length of time in technological developments, musical content or marketing techniques—is off and running with its newest entry, called quadrophonic sound.

With the first big consumer sales push for quadrophonic sound scheduled to start this fall, manufacturers, distributors and retailers are eagerly anticipating the public's response to this double-stereo system. For it is no secret that the sales growth of the record husiness slowed significantly last year and that additional merchandising opportunities to stimulate volume are being widely sought.

Just as greater dollar volume developed when long-playing rec-ords replaced those made at 78 revolutions a minute and when stereophonic sound virtually elimthe same, and while the plus business generated by quad sound may not erupt overnight, the involvement in it today of more than 30 manufacturers of softwell, while stereo record players can also handle quad disks. ware (records and tapes) and hardware (sound reproducing equipment makes it obvious that many chips are being bet on its eventual success.

4 Source Points

Quadrophonic sound re-creates sound from four source points, providing perception over 360 degrees. In contrast, stereophonic, or two-channel, sound uses motion between two sources, and monaural presents one sound regardless of the number of speakers.

inated monaural recording, the a matrix that converts these channels into just two on the disk. Proponents of both techniques cite varying degrees of compatibility with stereo record-ings, although some methods differ greatly: qued tape machines typically can play stereo tapes as > Many manufacturers are pricing their quad record albums and cartridge and cassette tapes at $1 more than their stereo ver-sions, which list widely at $5.98 and $6.95. respectively. The ad-ditional dollars expected to be derived from quad sound, coupled with an intensification of merchandising efforts, are among the factors that producers of records are counting on to cause a return to the sales successes of the decade up to 1970. And they expect this to happen, even though tape segments of the industry will benefit.

"I can't think of another business that grew as fast as the record business in the last ten years," said Mort Hoffman, division vice-president for commercial operations of RCA Records. "Until 1970, anybody could put out a record—and did."

But last year, the general recession throughout the country, overextensive production sched-ules and dislocations within the industry had adverse effects on record companies. Their rate of a dvance narrowed, executiva changes among major companies were widespread and sufficient inventory problems arose to tone down much of the euphorie generated in the immediate most.

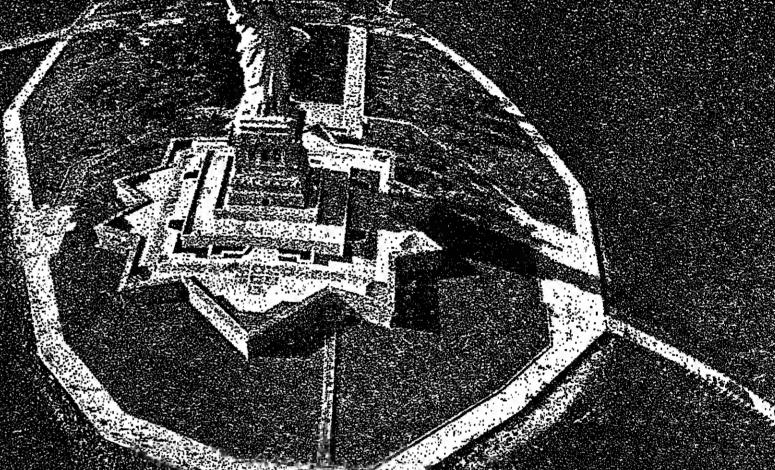

According to Billboard, a trade magazine that tabulates statistics about the record business, the list price value of records sold in 1970 and indicates that unit volume actually declined during the year. Although sales of records were affected by the conditions exist-ing last year, the upsurge in eight-track cortridges and tworeel cassettes continued, Billboard sars that retail volume at list prices jumped 20 percent to around $590 million, raising tape's percentage of recorded music to almost 30 from less than five only five years earlier. With an estimated $100 million a year more being spent for bootleg or pirated tapes-record ed performances do not fall under the protection of cop-right laws-tapemakers are ec-

BURWASH, Susser, England (IHT).-This is Kipling country. T soft green civilized meadows and downs of Susser may seen long way from Rudyard Kipling's storied world of the British but the writer lived for 40 years just beyond the village of Bures in a house that is a near-perfect example of early Jacobs architecture.

The house, Bateman's, is built of sturdy local stone and i a distinctive 17th-century roofline from which emerge six i a distinctive l'An-century roome from when energe ar 1 straight chimneys visible for miles. Rudyard Kipling and his American wife. Caroline Relief found the house in 1902 when he was 36 and already had a ha in literature. Recounting their discovery, he wrote: "We read-her down an enlarged rabhit-hole of a lane. At very first as the Committee of Ways and Means Chimself and Mrs. Kiphi said, That's her. The only She, Make an honest woman of i --quick.' Soon their home was packed with personal mementos, antispecially woven carpets with elephants and camels and lions -hippos, fantastic curios from the Far East, Burne-Jones patro of the family, 17th-century tapestries from Brussels.

The house had been built in 1634 by a wealthy frommaster the district when iron was the mainstay of the economy and h owners could afford considerable luxury and grace. Kipling and his wife planned the lawns and walks, yew t and hedges, the rustic bridge across the stream at the bottom the garden, planted a special variety of gnarled nut tree? reactivated an old mill. Kipling's watercolor design for the pond and rose garden is hung in the house.

Together, the Kiplings discovered the silvered Spanish leaf dining-room walls. It is now tarnished to dimness. (The Sup Palace at Sintra in Portugal has the same lavish material; but its silvered patina intact, in some of the rooms.) On the desk that Kipling used stands his silver inkwell;

His Nobel Prize certificate, won in 1907 for the "great p observation, original conception, virile comprehension" of writings, is there. So are letters from his old friend Rider Hag who often visited the family at Bateman's, and sketches of Kipling children in various scrapes dreamed up by Burne-J bear witness to the warmth of this family circle.

All the impediments of a busy, useful and unself-conscious have been kept intact, with that lived-in look often lacking statelier homes. Kipling died in 1936; his widow remained England and, at her death in 1939, bequeathed Bateman's an contents to the National Trust. Their surviving daughter? visits her home from time to time. Top honors went to Miss Grist as Aminta. She steered a perfect course between felgned shyness and vivaciousness. She was ably seconded by Lotte Schadle as Isotta and Glenys Loulis as Carlotta while the veteran Martha Mödl as the chattering housekeeper was a masterpiece of Rennert staging. "La Clemenza di Tito," written hurriedly in 1791 a few months before Mozart's death, was commissioned for the coronation of the Bohemian Emperor Leopold II. As a subject Mozart chose the mercy shown by the Roman Emperor Titus to a friend who had joined a conspiracy to murder hlm. It is known that Mozart's heart was not in the task: he obviously preferred celebrating Freemasonry as in "The Magic Flute" composed a few months earlier to justifying the monarchy But the work is by no means inferior as such. Indeed, few 18th-century operas can be considered superior to it. Mozart's music rises above Metastasio's shopworn libretto of 1734 and olten reaches the sublime. Who else could have written Sextus's msgnificent arias or the trio in the second act? "It is therefore unfortunate that the direction of this demanding opera was entrusted by the Bavarian State Opera to the gifted but not yet mature con-ductor Reynald Giovaninetti. He asked the Munich Philharmonic for fast tempos and varied them at will. Two markedly disparate tempos of the brief overture showed a reading singularly lacking in feeling for just pacing. Un-certainty marred the beautiful atmosphere achieved in the firstact finale.

The scenery and costumes of Jean-Pierre Ponnell were more appropriate but the stylized poses and movements of his staging gradually became tiresome. There were too many running exits by Sextus and wandering to and fro by Vitellia. But fortunately Julia Varady as Vitellia was fiery and impulsive, meeting the extreme demands of the role-from coloratura range to low G-with great aplomb. Brigitte Fassbaender provided the most consistent vocal artistry as the young Sextus. Sven Olof Eliasson's voice was too heavy for Titus, and Marga Schiml, the second of two women singing male roles, was an expressive Annius although her recitatives suffered from too much vibrato.

French Move Abates

By Carl Gewirtz PARIS, Aug. 5 (IHT) .- The dollar continued oot of favor in most European markets today but the confusioo and tension resulting from yesterday's anti-speculative move by France appeared to abate.

European bankers reported beavy selling of dollar securities, especially Eurobonds, where prices continued to fall. Although spokesmen for U.S. brokerage houses in Europe reported that sell orders far ootweighed purchases of U.S. slocks, they stessed that volume was not heavy and that the situation was normal in light of the recent sharp declines on Wall Street and the spate of pesconistic economic news.

Gold Up in London

In London, the price of gold was fixed this mornlog at $42.80 an ounce, the highest since June 1969 when it hit $42.95. By this afternoon it had retreated to set 75 for a gain of 25 cents on the day.

in Frankfurt, foreign exchange deglers estimated that the Bundesbank bought $2.5 million as the dollar slumped to a record low of 3.4415 deutsche marksequivalent to a 6.3 percent DM. revaluation. The dollar rallied to 13470 before settling back to close at 3.4425.

BONN, Aug. 5 (WP) .- Three months after it released the deutsche mark from fixed parity with tha dollac, Chancellor Willy Grandt's gov-ernment remains in a quandary about how to readjust the value of its "floating" currency.

Because the government cannot find an acceptable way out of its monetary problems, authoritative German sources say that the mark will continue to float for an indefinite periodat least three months and possibly longer.

This floating will continue, the sources insist despite persistent rumors that Bonn will return the mark to a fixed parity before the International Monetary Fund meeting scheduled for Washington in late September.

Sources say that an early rcpegging of the mark could happen only if Bohn were able to implement the solution advocated by Economics Minister Karl Schiller.

Joint Stance Sought

He wants all six EEC countries to simultaneously readjust their currencies and allow a joint stance sgainst the inflow of dollars into the Common Market.

However, his plan has been blocked by the refusal of France to cooperate. Although there are rumors of an impending secret deal between Bonn and Paris, German sources say that the differences between the two are unresolved and that the French denials of a sub-rosa agreement should be accepted at face value

The Brandt government also is reluctant to adopt any of the other options available to it. Each contains pitfalis that could damage Bonn's foreign policy goals or harm the interests of important groups within the German electorate, As a result, the sources say, Mr. Schiller has concluded that he has on choice other than to continue the float and see what effect coming events will have on breaking the impasse.

Confronting Bonn is the problem of how to protect Itself from the inflationary pressures caused by the flight of speculative money away from the dollar to the mark. While Bonn has temporarily overcome the immediate problem of atemming the inflow. the resort to floating has confronted it with other difficulties.

Domestic Damage

Domestically, the effects of a more expensive mark have been damaging to German industry, whose exports oow cost more and thus are less competitive, and to farmers, whose carnings are tied to a complex EEC system based on the exchange value of each member's currency with the dollar.

Unless a way to pacify them is found fairly quickly, the results could be politically disastrous for Mr. Brandt's coalition government. In the foreign policy sphere, a prolonged float could have seriously disruptive effects on the Common Market. With the stroogest of its currencies fluctuating erratically to value, the EEC can make no progress toward monetary union and the same fluctuation could wreck the cominon agricultural policy,

Most experts here think Bonn can get away with further floating until early 1972. To prolong a unilsteral float beyond then woold raise the possibility of a confrontation within the EEC that could tear the union apart.

A revaluation of about 5 percent would probably resolve the dollar inflow problem for the time being. But it would be done at the politically distastefut price of formalizing the more expensive mark already objected to so strenuously by German farmers and industrial exporters.

Only a Palliative

In addition, Mr. Schiller is known to feel that a revaluation would only serve as a palliativo unless the United States and the other major financtat countries agree to complementary changes in the world inooctary system.

The Germans actually would like to go back to the suspended parity. This, of course, is impossible on a uollateral basis sioce it would immediately unleash a new rush to turn in dollars for marks,

But, according to the sources here, Mr. Schiller does think that a return to the old parity, or one ibat involves only a minimal revaluation, is possible within the context of a concerted EEC approach.

In essence, what be wants is for the Six to revise their currencles in a way that would bring their respective values closer to each other. This would almost certainly require at least some of the Six to revalue.

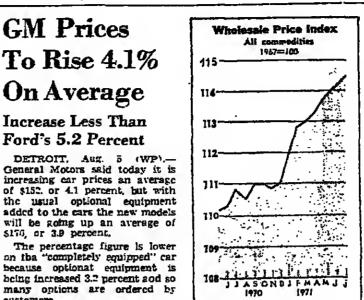

But the thrust of Mr. Schliler's plan calls for a system of widened parity bands, considerably broadening the upper and lower limits for fluctuation of the dollar against the EEC currencies.

German sources say Parts has made clear that it will not even consider the idea of joint action until the mark is first repegged. That is unacceptable to Bonn, which argues that it would be courting disaster to repeg without clear-cut assurances that the other will join it in a concerted stance.

The EEC ministers will have another meeting In mid-September just before the Washington conference, and the Germans are expected to make a new plea for unity then. However, the most knowldgeable sources here say that they see no chance of a successful outcome

Meanwhile: Banque de France officials met with commercial bankers in an effort to explain its complicated and poorly under-Mood directive aimed at barring fresh inflows of speculative "hot" muney. The officials said small transactions might not be too carefully scrutinized, but they waroed that proof of the non-speculative nature of large deposits should be made available.

Japan's Reserves Rise

TOKYO, Aug. 5 (AP-DJ) .--Apan's foreign currency reserves at the end of July totaled $7.972 fillion, up $327 million from a month earlier, the Finance Ministry said. The rise was much similer than the $1.1 billion May and $683 million June increases.

The preliminary figures set the June surplus at 339 million DM. against a revised deficit of 214 millioo DM in May and a deficit of 299 million DM in June last year.

The Bundesbank considers the hasic balance the best indicator of Germaoy's payments situation. The balance comprises only current accounts-trade, tourism and "invisible" earnings-and long-term capital movements.

The overall payments balance, including Germany's International Monetary Fund positions and special drawing rights, showed a preliminary June deficit of 7.78 billion DM, compared with surpluses of 7.94 billino DM in May and of 3.68 billion DM a year earlier.

For the half-year, the overall balance showed a surplus of 11.84 billion DM, up from a 6.76 billico surplus a year cearlier.

The Bundesbank noted that. preliminary Juna returns show-May of nearly 6.5 billioo DM, prior to the mark float, had moved out of the country in June.

The number of vacant jobs was 708,300, down 2.7 percent from 728,300 in June and 18.8 percent from a year earlier.

A spokesman said that the decline in demand for labor was due to the cooling of the economy and seasonal factors. He said that many plants had closed for July, and reduced their demands for

The department said that in the first half yarn imports rose 98 percent from a year earlier. fabric imports : ' percent, apparel imports 31 percent and other textile goods 3 percent.

The figures for both steel and textiles will fuel already strong opposition in some sectors of the United States to growing imports. Stainless steel imports reached a six-month total of nearly 100,000 tons, compared with 94,000 tons last year.

On July 29. legislation was introduced in the Senate to limit steel imports to 15.1 million tons this year and hold the annual increase to not more than 25 percent. The bill bas the support of at least 34 senators, and is aimed primarily at Japanese aod Europeau producers. Japan introduced voluntary restrictions on textile exports on July 1. And Taiwan and the United States reached agreement in principle in June on limiting Taiwan textile exports.

MOET - HENNESSY

(New some of the Moison MOET & CHANDON - Founded in 1743) Results of the financial year as of June 30, 1971.

The Board of Directors of the company, at their meeting of July 6th. closed the accounts for the financial year as of June 30, 1971.

Although the above financial year bad an exceptionally long duration of 18 months, the net results, which total 21,430,597 Frs. include essentially the dividends paid by the subsidiaries for the 1970 financial year covering a period of 12 months.

Accordingly, the Board of Directors will propose at the Ordinary General Meeting which will be held in Paris, on September 16, 1971, the payment of a net dividend of Fr. 8.60 per share to which must be added a fiscal credit of Fr. 3.30 (the dividend paid for the 1969 financial year amounted to Fr. 6.00 net per share).

A price increase was considered a foregone conclusion because of inflation. Just this week, major steel makers announced an 8 percent price hike.

GM is considered the price leader in the auto industry. Thus, Ford and Chrysler may make some adjustments in their prices after getting a look at GM's price lists. Ford, for example, has a 21 percent markup on its sporty cars, the Mustang and Cougar, which compete with the Camaro and Firebird, so an adjustment is likely. There is likely to be another round of price adjustments in January because of new federal safety regulations. Aoto Sales Rise

Meanwhile industry figures show that U.S. auto makers increased their sales 4.3 percent in July compared with a year carlier. But they were far outstripped by imported cars, which registered sales gains of 229 percent.

Dealers delivered 667,812 U.S.make cars in July, up from 640,514 autos a year earlier. But about 145,000 imported cars were sold last mooth. up from the 1t8,000 units sold in July 1970. some relish at a Hollywood Hills cocktail party or on the terrace of a Roman superattico; it smacks of wordly ironies and exudes hard salubrious truths. This is the way we are: covetous, 'ustful, forever seeking out the unworthy object. It's the real love story of this and any year: the one that doesn't work, or as Henri Clouzot put it in "La Vérité": we love one another but, alas, never at the same time. Benjamin Constant, Proust and Eagan have explored its subtleties; now the authentic voice of George Hayim gives it to us straight in his original variation on the theme: a 40,20 merciless vision (the love of a possessive, neurotically compulsive sybaritehysteric of 40 named Jo for an insolent, proudly ruthless, indif-ferent animal of 20 named Edouard) framed in an exquisite sado-masochistic battle of wits, a chiaroscuro of mutually inflicted pain, as it is for those whose notion of love is thus defined in the late nineteen-sixtles jet-set crowd. The author, George Hayim, 15 a puckish charmer with a most sophisticated background and lifestyle. Born in 1920 of Sephardic Jewish parents from Baghdad, he has lived in many European capitals, shnttling back and forth. from London, Paris and Rome, descending at the great hotels and the homes of the great. It has taken a half-century of intense living to allow the crys-tallizations of felt existence to lead to the literary life. The loyal friend to well-known writers was content to play the eccentric, beloved clown; now, as a purge for this searing experience, he has distilled it into the wine of a witty novel. It is the chronicle of a monumental charmer outcharmed by a younger man of even greater charismatic qualities. It took one to know one, and he has resuscitated the shock of recognition in 29 rebellious, jetflashing chapters, each an essence, a moment of necessary unfurling, inscribed in the shorthand of obsessive love, confidingly natural and yet insistently accurate, rigorously raunchy (a la Genet and Auden), disarmingly funny and sad.

"Obsession" is the record of an improbable passion between two very special people who were. as the popular song so pungently puts it, desafinado: " 'Desafinado' in Brazilian means 'Il-fitting, illtuned, what does not go together' . . . an old woman and a young man or an old man and a young man-a young man who likes girls." Rarely has an alte geschichte been so felicitously set of authentically observed sexual down. Like life, the plot is per-one: All he does is win. It was a particularly satisfying triumph for Hall, who first won in 1959 with a toss of 195-11, improved to 205-10 in 1963, but slipped in recent years.

George Frenn, the U.S. national hammer throw champion, was second. Frenn threw 215-5, far off his 230-1 earlier this year.

At the finish of the fifth day of competition, the United States has 78 medals and the gold-silverbronze distribution is 38-25-27. Cubs is second with 12-28-11 for total of 51 and Canada ranks third at 5-6-16 for 26 overall. Miss Pierce, a 5-foot-4, 106-pounder with blond bair in beribboned pigtails, won two of four individual routines-the side-horse vault and uneven parallel bars. She had won the individual and shared the team overall championships earlier.

Hopes Thwaried

Her hopes of a siz-gold-medal sweep were thwarted when 15-year-old Kimberly Chace of Palm Beach Gardens, Fig., won the balanced beam and then Miss Metheny came through to score her first individual title in the floor exercises, last of the competition.

The new gymnastics queen only 16 years old and a high school honor student, gave a poised and polished performance that marked her as a definite threat to the Russiana, Czechs and Japanese in the 1872 Olympic Games at Munich.

Observer Tears for the Rich

By Russell Baker

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.-There was an item in the paper the other day about the passing of the convertible. An open car, it appears, makes no sense anymore even for the rich. On hot days they prefer turning on BB sir-cooditioner to peeling hack R roof. This has something to de with the usually loathsome coosistency of the outside Bir in much of the country, but the more compelling consideratioo may be the turnpike opeeds st which commonly CAIS travel nowedbys. At 70 mileo an hour, B ride in an opeo coovertible is something like flying in an open-cockpit airplane. In aoy event, the convertible, which ooce played a big part in every boy's dream of the sweet, soft, decadent. sinridden life, is about through. Chrysler has quit making them. and Ford and General Motors may soon follow suit.

All this, at least, is what the news story said. If you pause loog eoough to think about it, however, it doesn't really add up. What Detrolt is saying is that the convertible doesn't make sense anymore. The flaw in the ex-planation is that the convertible never did make any sense. Its design was ridiculously dangerous. Visibility to the rear was poor with the roof up, and the roof was almost always up, either because the mechanism for lowering it was broken or because the weather was raining or freezing or so hot that the seat cushions could have fried hominy.

The only justification for a convertible was as pure luxury for persons who eojoyed feeling conspicuous. On thet rare day in May when all the elemeots of the good life were in rare conjunction-the temperature just right, the sun st just the proper intensity of warmth, the woman in the passenger seat of stunning desirability, and the roof-lowering mechanism lo one of its iofrequent working moods-on such rare days the convertible earned its upkeep. at least for the rich man or the poor foolish sybarite who owned one.

The true explanation for the decline of the convertible is more interesting and more melancholy. In recent years there have been many related declines and disappearances. The ocean liner, the great botel, the transcontineotal passenger train, amoog others, have slready gone down that road which the convertible is now driving. The result has been the triumph of the airplane, the motel and the air-conditioned-car-bearing turnpike which enables us to roll through the center of town with the windows sealed so that nobody can bear us has and m00. * * *

It has always seemed that the chief pleasure of being rich would consist in living in a fashion that made no sense, st least in the American definition. Certainly, this living style would embrace ownership of a convertible.

It would also, surely, mean, when visiting aoother city, not having to stay in some inexpressibly totalitarian motel cell breathing all that tired old used Bir and trying to get the televisloo set to work.

Who can possibly care anymore about being rich if the day comes, as soon it almost certainly will, when a trip abroad means not a long sea voyage and a tun-ing down of the nerves, but a cannonball ride in a sealed metal contaloer which hurls you from utter desperation in New York to absolute exhaustico in Rome? These decisions to eliminate anything in the world that makes life better must be made by rich people, for rich people are the only kind of people who could possibly own airlines, motels, automobile companies and turnpike-huilding machinery. Why on earth do it? Is it out of simple preference for the herd life? Or is it to keep their profligate childreo from having any-thing conspicuous to do? Or could it be that the only thing that is truly any fun anymore for the rich man is paying an absurd price for a European painting so that he can make another tax saving, get richer, and sit around complaining to his wife that since they quit making convertibles life isn't any fun anymore?

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, FRIDAY, AUGUST 6, 1971

By James Reston

DEKING (NYT) .- China may have the answer to America's problem of overeating and overweight. Baving unsuc-cesfully tried every simming formula from Lenten repeotaoce to Joe Alsop's drinking man's diet, I have switched to chopsticks and reached the scientific conclusion that it is impossible not to lose weight if you rely on these slippery implements. It's hard to find a fat man in this country. The Chinese are lean and muscular. Some say this is because their staple diet is rice, others that they work hard in the countrysida and walk or ride bicycles in the cities. But after a few days of desperate experimentation with chopsticks, my problem now is not how to lose weight but bow to avoid starvation. Chinese food is excellent and plentiful. It is tastefully served on high tables and can, in an emergency, be shoveled into in in the victim is sitting on a low chair, as he usually is. But eating Chinese food properly with chopsticks, which is to say delicately and in reasonable silence. is a challenge which defies the law of gravity and the ingenuity of most Americans.

I naturally started with the overlapping grip. This is supposed to give you good control, but in my case it seemed to put spin on the hamboo shoots. I got good distance but developed a wicked slice to the right. I then switched to the inter-locking grip, without noticeable success and in frustration, finally tried stabbing with the husiness end of the stick. But stabbing, you are firmly told, is cheating. so there you sit, like a blind dog in a meat house, eager but helpless.

The Chinese, of course, are sympathetic.

NYT

The Reston grip.

Innumerable amused but compassionate waitresses: Foreign Office officials and understanding strangers have given me lessons, and I have tried to follow their advice. I have practiced in secret with casy items like dried beef. I have studied the sayings of Chairman Mao, bot so far neither finger gymnastics nor Communist philosophy has done much good.

The generosity of the Chinese only adds to the foreign amateur's problems, When you arrive at the table awash with tea, it is loaded with delicacies, all neatly cut up in small portions and each with its own name. Crispy things are called su, long things tiao, shredded things are si, cubes are ding, peeled food is ren, chopped tood mo.

But outside of ham and meat balls. you usually can't tell a sea slug from a pickled mushroom, and your host usually loads a little of each into your bowl and leaves the rest of the exercise to you.

This gives yon plenty of time to study and fiddle with your chopsticks. Most of them are about eight inches long, some made of bamboo or lacquered wood, bone, ebony or plastic. Some are round and good for hitting foul balls, but most, fortunately, are square so that occasionally you can pinch a morsel on the edge. This increases your imagination and appetite without, of course, satisfying your hunger.

Meanwhile, the Chinese all around you use their chopsticks with the agility of a lobster and add a little more food to your undiminished mound. As the evening passes, yon wonder vaguely if magnetized chopsticks would work, but steel filings in your meat might be a problem. Finally you look around furtively for a slice of bread, but that is almost the only thing in the whole culinary world that is not available.

Fortunately, there are a few consolations. The meat-ball soup is good, and you can swallow it, meat balls and all, Also, you learn eventually to abandon all efforts st pinching the food between the greasy spears and, by lowering the angle. slide a little food onto the rails and gradually balance it into your mouth. Even then, however, the main consolation of losing weight is not so readily available, for Chinese beer is very good indeed, and what else can a man con-sume under the circumstances?

PEOPLE:

It was "r cheap shot," said Walter Belcersk, managing editor of The Public Employee Press, referring to a New York Times editorial. "The prevailing Rttitude among public employees (in New York City)," read the Times editorial, "seems to be one of how little work they can do for how much more pay . . One can see the clerks at 'work' chatting with each other, settling personal financial accounts, catching up with their newspaper reading. or just daydreaming .... " This was just a little moch for Dis-trict Council 37 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, which represents 90,000 New York City municipal employees, and it fired back in its own fashion. The union printed in its newspaper seven photographs it said were taken by its photographer in the Times newsroom July 1 at 4:15 p.m., showing Times em-ployees "taking it easy, sitting around, reading, daydreaming, doing the Times crossword, puzzle, shooting the breeze, flirting-in short, just what you would expect to find occasionally in every office in the world." Further, The Public Employee Free Press said that as soon as photographer BIII Schleichter was spotted. "a. dosen or so staffers chased him through the balls and then security personnel trundled him off to the 'security office.' There they threatened to selze his camera (he said that would be illegal), and demanded his film (he refused on constitutional grounds

First Amendment, freedom of tha. press, upheld by the U.S. Su-preme Court that very day in the Times's own case of the Pentagon Papers)." .....

Actress Natalie Wood, 23, has filed for divorce in Santa Monica, California, from her second husband, movie producer Richard J. Gregson, 41. The couple was married May 30, 1989. They have a 10-month-old daughter. Miss Wood formerly was married to actor Robert Wagner.

Reported in satisfactory condition at the Massachusetis Eve and Ear Infirmary in Boston is Ella Fitzgerald, 51, who has just undergone surgery for removal of a cataract from her left eye. A hemorrhage two weeks ago had forced the jazz singer to cut short a European four, though the operation should not affect Ella's autumn schedule.
